GENERAL ANALYSIS

This analysis offers a comprehensive overview of key business metrics and trends to support data-driven decision-making.

How Our Key Performance Indicators Performed (Customers)

Total Customer
26841

- March 2023 witnessed a sharp spike with 7,081 new customers, nearly double the usual monthly average, pointing to a standout campaign or seasonal effect.
- Except for this surge, monthly customer acquisition was stable at around 3,800–4,100, with numbers returning to normal in April, indicating the March growth was a one-time event during the period.

DCG
148

- March 2023 saw a significant spike in daily customer growth (DCG) at 228, well above the typical range, reflecting the period's overall surge in customer acquisition.
- DCG remained steady between 126–139 in all other months, with numbers quickly returning to these levels after March.

How Our Key Performance Indicators Performed (Revenue)

Total Revenue
989.25 M

- March 2023 experienced a major revenue surge, reaching 263.84M, nearly double the monthly average.
- For the remaining months, monthly revenue remained steady between 131.69M and 156.32M, confirming that the growth in March was an isolated peak amid generally stable performance.

DRG
5.47 M

- March 2023 saw a standout increase in DRG at 8.51M, well above the usual range.
- For the other months, DRG remained steady between 4.39M and 5.12M, with the overall six-month average at 5.47M.

Why Did Customer Acquisition and Revenue Spike in March 2023?

Customers/Revenue Trends over the Months

- Year-End Tax Planning & Regulatory Deadlines: March is the financial year-end in India, driving a surge in insurance purchases as individuals rush to avail tax benefits.
- Intensified Sales Campaigns & Target-Driven Push: Insurers and agents ramp up efforts in March to meet annual targets, offering attractive promotions, contributing to increased customer acquisition and revenue.

Which age group should we prioritize to maximize revenue growth?

Customers, Revenue by Age Group

Age Group	Customers	Revenue
31-40	11455	₹ 356.03 M
41-50	4699	₹ 196.02 M
65+	1919	₹ 184.89 M
51-65	2511	₹ 148.41 M
25-30	3617	₹ 67.71 M
18-24	2640	₹ 36.19 M

- 31–40: Largest customer group and top revenue contributor ₹356M.
- 65+: Small customer base, but nearly as much revenue as 41–50; highest revenue per customer, strong for high premium targeting.
- 41–50 & 51–65: Both show substantial revenue.
- 31–50 segment: Combined, these groups form the backbone of both customers and revenue.

How does customer distribution by city translate into revenue?

Customers, Revenue by City

City	Customers	Revenue
Delhi NCR	11007	₹ 401.57 M
Mumbai	6432	₹ 239.51 M
Hyderabad	4340	₹ 160.52 M
Chennai	2966	₹ 106.31 M
Indore	2096	₹ 81.35 M

- Delhi NCR leads all cities in terms of the highest number of customers and revenue.
- Mumbai is the second-largest market with 6,432 customers and ₹239.51M revenue.
- Indore has the highest revenue per customer, ₹38,818, despite its smaller size.
- Hyderabad and Chennai are mid-tier performers, both in customer count and revenue.

Key Learning and Recommendations from General Analysis

- Focus on the 31–50 age group for upsell and cross-sell opportunities.
- Offer premium, personalized products to 65+ high-value customers.
- Strengthen presence in Delhi NCR and Mumbai through aggressive campaigns.
- Run awareness campaigns in Hyderabad and Chennai to capture more customers.
- Train agents to target different customer segments with tailored offerings.
- Develop exclusive promotions around the financial year-end to boost acquisition.

SALES MODE ANALYSIS

This analysis provides insights into customer demographics and revenue distribution across sales modes, along with monthly trends to identify performance patterns.

Online mode is growing at an exponential speed

Total Customer % by Sales Mode (Nov 22)

Total Customer % by Sales Mode (Apr 23)

- Offline Agent overall dominates, showing strong customer trust.
- Offline Direct mode declined drastically from 29.3% (Nov 22) to 6.4% (Apr 23).
- Online mode grew from 6% (Nov 22) → 48.4% (Apr 23).

How does sales mode perform over the months?

- Strong shift in customer behavior toward digital convenience. The online app is the preferred digital channel among customers.
- Offline Agent remains trusted, but is slowly losing its customer base.
- Direct mode is losing customers rapidly, signaling reduced preference for branch/direct sales.

Key Learning and Recommendations from Sales Mode

- Strengthen Agent network for customer trust & high-value policies.
- Invest aggressively in digital (App & Website) to capture growing demand.
- Reassess Direct mode strategy – optimize costs or reposition for niche customers.

AGE GROUP ANALYSIS

This analysis explores the impact of different age groups on key metrics like expected settlement, sales mode preference, and policy trends to support informed decision-making.

Projected Estimated Settlement by Age Group

Estimated Settlement by Age Group

- The estimated settlement is the amount an insurer forecasts it will pay for a claim.
- Age 31–40 has the highest estimated settlement at ₹546.7M.
- The 65+ age group, despite having the lowest customer base, shows the second-highest settlement, slightly above that of the 41–50 group.

Customer Base by Age Group

Total Customer by Age Group

Total Customers by Age Group over the Months

- The 31–40 age group has the largest and fastest-growing customer base, rising from 1.1K (Nov 22) to 2.4K (Apr 23).
- The 65+ group remains steady, retaining its customer base.
- Other age groups show a slight downward trend over the same period.

Policy Performance by Age Group

Policy Performance By Age Group

POL6303HEL	131	281	1383	772	314	136
POL9221HEL	83	147	921	511	406	250

- The 31–40 age group drives the highest adoption across most policies.
- POL3309HEL dominates in 31–40, while POL4321HEL is strong in 18–30.
- The 65+ group is small but responsive to selected policies (e.g., POL2005HEL).

Sales Mode Preferred by Age Group

- 31–40 age group dominates, leading in both offline and online channels.
- The agent network is the top channel for every age group.
- Digital modes (App & Website) are rising strongly among younger and mid-age customers, but also showing growth in the remaining age group.
- Direct sales are continuously declining and are less preferred across all ages.

Key Learning and Recommendation from Age Group Analysis

- Focus on the 31–40 age group as the key growth driver, given its largest and fastest-growing customer base and highest settlement value.
- Strengthen retention strategies for the 65+ group to maintain its steady base.
- Promote POL3309HEL within 31–40 and POL4321HEL in 18–30 to maximize adoption.
- Continue strengthening the agent network since it is the top channel across all age groups.
- Expand digital channels (App & Website) to capture younger and mid-age customers, while balancing with agent-driven trust.
- Phase out or reposition direct sales, as it is declining across all age groups.
